TEUSINK RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION

When you think of Tiger Teusink, you definitely think of him as one of the most outstanding high school coaches in the nation. Therefore, it is fitting that Tiger was honored at this year's U.S. Open in New York.

He received the United States Tennis Association coaches award for being one of the most outstanding coaches who has made a difference. This was the first year the award was given and our own Tiger Teusink was one of two coaches being honored in the Big Apple.

Coach Teusink and his wife, Shirley, were given the red carpet treatment as they made their first visit ever to the Open. They sat at mid-court with former mayor Rudy Giuliani and John McEnroe's parents. Tiger and his wife also got to see Agassi, Federer and Blake play.

Tiger commented that out of all the awards he has received, this was the epitome of all of them and a very special and humbling award.

Tiger is still very active running local regional events and state tournaments. You will also see Tiger attend various tennis matches, including West Ottawa and Holland

ANOTHER FEATHER IN WOOD'S CAP

This time it is the National Federation of State High School Associations Hall of Fame. In 1997, it was the National High School Athletic Coaches Hall of Fame. Other national honors include NHSACA Coach of the Year

(1981), NFHSACA Coach of the Year (2002), and NHSCA Coach of the Year (2003). Indeed, so many national honors serve to elevate the status of those who share space with him on the wall of the MHSTeCA Hall of Fame display located at the Midland Community Tennis Center.

In an induction ceremony on July 2 in San Antonio, Bob received his award along with such notables as Sean Elliott and Ty Detmer, both of whom have also spent time in the Detroit area. In total, five athletes, three coaches, one contest official, two administrators, and two individuals in the fine arts field were inducted into the 23rd class of the National High School Hall of Fame at the Marriott Rivercenter, site of this national organization's 86th annual summer meeting.

Bob was the first tennis coach to be inducted into this hall of fame for "his unprecedented success at his alma mater, University Liggett School." As the boys coach from 1966 to his retirement in 2002, his teams won 27 state championships and

CO-CHAMPIONS ON AND OFF THE COURT

The match was finally over and Region 27 had been decided. Grosse Isle's Stu Krueger and Mike Harwood narrowly defeated Ann Arbor Greenhills' Arvind Sohoni and Nathan Lusk 6-4, 4-6 7-5 in the number one doubles final. Grosse Isle and Greenhills were co-champions with 26 points.

But the real story was what happened right after the match. As the players exchanged handshakes at the net, both teams and their outstanding coaches, John Shade and Eric Gajar, spilled onto court. In an incredible display of respect and sportsmanship, both teams offered handshakes and hugs to each other.

"It was quite a scene," commented site director Jan Ducsay. "To witness both teams, who had competed so fiercely for the title, give each other such sincere congratulations was really heart-warming."

Indeed, the true essence of sports was epitomized by the reactions of both squads and their coaches. Too often, there is animosity between rivals. Grosse Isle and Greenhills demonstrated competitive intensity and, at the same time, genuine admiration for each other. They did it "the right way."

BRAVO!

2005 BOYS' COACHES OF THE YEAR

Veteran coaches of both Detroit-area and state-wide tennis teams will remember the strong squads that annually came out of West Bloomfield in the '70s and '80s.

Especially noteworthy was the 1978 contingent which included 15 state champion Mark Pinchoff and 25 state champion Eric Garber. Ed Nagel was Class A state champion in 1982, the year that the Lakers finished 4th in the state.

Despite competing in a tough conference and regional tournaments that included Bloomfield Lahser, Brother Rice, Rochester Adams, Rochester, Hirmingham Groves, and Birmingham Seaholm, the Lakers won 7 league titles, 5 regional championships, and qualified for state competition 11 times between 1973 and 1990. They finished third in the state in 1976.

Leading the team during this era was the well-liked and much-respected Greg Kopec. But despite his squads' many triumphs, he left tennis coaching at West Bloomfield when his wife went back to elementary teaching after years of being home with the family. It became Greg's turn to pick up the kids after school and transport them to various activities. As it turns out, one of those activities was the Clarkston High School tennis program where Greg's sons would play tennis for then-coach Dick Swartout and later for 2004 MHSFCA coach of the year Kevin Ortwine.

For four years Swartout and Ortwine enjoyed the services of a highly experienced, highly successful volunteer assistant coach. Indeed, after sons Kevin and Mike graduated, they themselves followed in their competent father's footsteps by coaching JV tennis in the area, Mike at Avondale and Kevin at Lake Orion. Greg, in turn, was persuaded to return to West Bloomfield during a tennis coaching transition at the school even though he declares that he had no intention of "going home again."

But most certainly he picked up where he left off, as evidenced by the success of the 2005 squad which finished 6th at the state tournament. "Every player and every flight had some key wins for us," said Greg in summarizing the season. "We did not rely on only a few flights in each match but found various different players coming through at various times." Perhaps the most memorable moment of the season occurred in the regional finals when WB's 4S was in the third set with Brother Rice and the championship was on the line. He was down 4-1 but came back to win the match, thus sealing the regional title. At the state tournament, 1S, 2S, 4S, 2D, and 4D all made it to the quarterfinals.

Greg, who teaches 8th grade science and who coaches both the boys and girls 8th grade basketball teams, has been in the West Bloomfield school system for 33 years. He declines to compare today's teams with those of a generation ago. Besides, vast experience sometimes muddies the memory. But it is clear that this is a coach who has put together outstanding teams in two separate eras at West Bloomfield and who exerted an influence in the 1990s that raised the level of play in the Clarkston program. By any and every measurement – including longevity – he is a worthy coach of the year.

MARK SHENTON NORTH FARMINGTON

"I attribute a great deal of my good fortune with tennis to my Downriver roots," says Mark Shenton, who played at Trenton High School under Vince Preuthun from 1991-1994. According to Vince, Mark gave up a promising basketball career to concentrate on tennis where he won four league championships – one in doubles and three in singles – for the Trojans. During that time, Trenton teams captured the regional every year and throughout his four years there, Mark got to observe such stalwarts as Jim Stewart, John Shade, Tim Coleman, Jan Gottlin, Jon Garvie, and Jerry Escheck. Vince describes him as "extremely coachable."

Thus, Mark brought a solid foundation to Western Michigan University where he played for two years. When athletic director Bernie Larson at nearby Battle Creek Pennfield saw his resume and hired the 20-year-old, Mark rewarded the school with a second place finish at the regional twice. Both years the Panthers were runners-up to Eric Gajar and his Ann Arbor Greenhills squad but he got to take his kids to the state tournament twice in the three years he was there.

Mark then moved back home to Trenton where he substitute taught and was working at the Franklin Racquet Club. When he heard about an opening at North Farmington, he took full advantage of the opportunity. In six seasons, he has presided over five consecutive regional championship teams and three league championships in the WLAA.

This year's squad contained a core of kids who had been with Mark for four years. Although they got knocked around in a tough OAA Division 1, their solid experience stood up well at regional time where they qualified under the Murphy Rule with 19 points. This is a team which finished seventh in the conference because they play in a rough neighborhood: Birmingham Groves, Birmingham Seaholm, Bloomfield Lahser, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Andover, Troy, and Stoney Creek. Thus a talented group which got beat up in the league during the season was amply prepared for the state tournament where the Raiders finished 9th.

Under Mark's leadership, North Farmington's girls team finished 3rd in the state last year, his third year of coaching the team. Although he stepped down as girls coach last May, he teaches physical education at North Farmington, teaches tennis throughout the year at the Franklin Racquet Club, and spends summers teaching at the Detroit Tennis and Squash Club. Although his boys team graduated some outstanding senior leaders, a significant leader will be back: the 2005 Division II Coach of the Year.

GARY ELLIS ALLEGAN

Regarding coach of the year selections, a philosophical difference occurs at virtually all of the MHSTeCA board meetings. Some board members feel that the most deserving coach from the list of regional coach of the year winners should be chosen regardless of past honors received. Others think that the award should be passed around a bit, especially if someone on the list has, say, been recently inducted into the Hall of Fame. After all, they think, an individual who has never been recognized statewide would appreciate it more.

It is fortunate for many coaches that often (but by no means always) the latter philosophy prevails. Otherwise, a good argument could be made that Gary Ellis would get the honor every three years, the limitation for the award that is placed by the MHSTeCA on those who are selected. As it turns out, Gary seems to get the award every ten years instead. He was boys coach of the year in 1984 and girls coach of the year in 1994.

And he certainly deserves the award in 2005. This is an individual whose service to his team, to his community, and to our organization has been both excellent and steadfast for 31 years. Twice he has stepped up to serve as his school's athletic director. For many years, he has represented West Michigan on the state seeding committee, an arduous task that should have its own award attached to it. He has been president of the MHSTeCA. He is chairman of the Midwest Section Junior Tennis Committee. He co-directs a summer program comprised of over 200 participants. And until last year, he organized the results of the regional coach of the year balloting and conducted the selection process at semiannual board of directors meetings. And it doesn't take a rocket scientist to recognize why he never won coach of the year honors during this time period.

But lots of folks have inwardly said that he should have. After all, his teams are strong and well-behaved year after year. In over three decades of coaching, his kids have recorded 259 dual meet victories, 20 conference championships, 8 regional titles, times where his best finish was third. In the process, he has hosted too many regional and invitational tournaments to count. This year's squad was typical: 1st in the conference, 2nd in the regional, and 7th in the state.

In the process, it is an understatement to say that Gary conducts himself well. At his tournaments, rival coaches applaud the level of competition, the exhibitions of good will, the outstanding organization, and Gary's legendary sense of humor, all of which go into making certain Saturdays and regionals a satisfying experience for both coaches and kids. Indeed, when describing Gary, coaches use phrases such as "legend of Allegan tennis," "grass roots organizer," "highest integrity," "constantly looking to improve," and "tireless worker." We are pleased to add one more: "three-time coach of the year."

ERIC GAJAR ANN ARBOR GREENHILLS

An excellent argument can be made that Eric Gajar's state coach of the year award is long overdue. Under his leadership, the Gryphons finished 2nd at the final tournament in 2000, third in 2001, and then captured consecutive state championships in 2003 and 2004. But ironically, Eric becomes coach of the year in 2005 when his team finished 3rd in the state, a stellar achievement from the viewpoint of most schools but perhaps a disappointment for a team with such an impressive record.

But then Eric is used to the unexpected. The year we won our first state title, we had just graduated 7 players after finishing 3rd in the year before," he said. "We were ranked no higher than 7th all year and had a very losing record, and no tournament titles. In fact, we had lost the regional tournament for the first time since I started coaching. We were not on the radar screen but things all went our way (especially the second day of the tournament). Then in 2004, we had almost everybody back and were ranked #1 all year along. We got our regional title back and won back-to-back titles."

what made the season so special. The team's third place finish -- wherein Eric coached seven new players, eight underclassmen in all -- was certainly not a disappointment. The entire singles lineup had never played a singles match in high school. "I usually have a pretty good idea of who will make the team year in and year out," he said, "but this year, it was really wide open. I had four freshmen and three boys from JV make the team. They really had no idea what to expect and I was hoping to make the state tournament and finish somewhere in the top ten. Tying the number one team in the state for the regional title was unexpected."

Eric gives credit for the team's success to a developing tradition wherein younger brothers who had seen siblings either get close or reach the top, provided incentive and inspiration for the next group. In addition, Eric started a JV program in 2000 from which boys were able to step up ready for varsity action. He also bulked up the schedule. "We had a dual match [this year] where we got shut out 8-0, and I was sure to let the boys know that we hadn't had that happen in the previous five years," he said. "That livened up practices for awhile."

The overall result: In 11 years, Eric has presented the school with 10 regional trophies and has coached a state champion in every flight. His program fits in well with other remarkably successful programs from the Ann Arbor area. And it doesn't hurt that he has something in common with Hall of Famer Bob Wood and Coach of the Year Gary Ellis: all three are athletic directors. In addition, it won't hurt that as Director of Enrollment Outreach at Greenhills, Eric can tell prospective students that the school's tennis coach is MHSTeCA Coach of the Year.

matches. He still loves being around the great sport of tennis.

Coach Teusink was also honored at the end of September as he was awarded Michigan High School Athletic Coaches Association's Distinguished Service Award. This event took place at Central Michigan University.

Congratulations, Tiger!

finished second eight times. They posted fourth all-time nationally in the National High School Sports Record Book. Bob also coached girls tennis for two different time periods (1987-91 and 1994-2001). In those 13 years, his teams won 12 state championships. His 1989, 1990, and 1991 teams were undefeated.

Bob was also cited for having founded the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association in 1977. He started the annual clinic which, as most of us know, has become one of the largest and most successful in the nation. In addition, he is past president of the National High School Athletic Coaches Association (NHSACA), was inducted into the Michigan High School Coaches Association Hall of Fame in 1989, and received the Allen Bush Award from the Michigan High School Athletic Association in 1993.

PASSING SHOTS

It's comforting to know we have another year to enjoy our traditional tennis seasons. For me, it means my girls' team was able to enjoy our trip, before school started, to Traverse City for great fun and competition. We use that two-day trip to help bond a team. This is but one example of many traditions girls throughout the state are about to experience.

Our state's tennis tradition has strong roots due to the contributions of coaches like the ones receiving honors mentioned in this issue of the newsletter. I would like to add my congratulations to our organization's founder, Bob Wood, Harold Holcomb and Tiger Teusink. And congratulations also to Greg Kopec, Mark Shenton, Gary Ellis and Eric Gajar for their selection as our Boys' Tennis Coaches of the Year. These coaches represent the many coaches, like you, who give their time and efforts to help young athletes appreciate and enjoy the game we love.

Your thoughts and concerns are important to our association. Please note that my fax number and e-mail address have changed since the last newsletter.
